

Morse Code , while still useful, should not be a requirement for Amateur Service license testing. I would think with todays modern modes of operation, more focus on theory, rules, and operating practice would be of equal or greater benefit when compared to the 5wpm Morse requirement.